Re: Mayo Medical Laboratories (MML) Testing Delay

We have received notification from MML of a testing delay:

Oxygen Dissociation, P50:

At this time, MML is unable to perform this test, and there is no foreseen date available for resumption of testing. We have been unable to locate another source for the test. Specimens for Oxygen Dissociation, P50 testing should not be collected until you receive further notice indicating that testing has resumed.

Please accept our apologies for any inconvenience this may cause you or your patients.
